Description
If the current refinement includes more than the current limit of number of entries, the New Elog doesn't tell you that there are more entries unless you open the Limit dropdown.
The number of entries in the refinement should be displayed obviously somewhere so that the user knows that there are more than the limit.
Also, it may be useful if the number of entries is greater than the limit to have the limit dropdown expanded already, so that one may easily navigate through the entries.
